

ETHICAL ASPECTS AND CONFLICT OF INTEREST

This brief questionnaire aims to explicitly address certain aspects of the article that may not be fully detailed in the text but are relevant to the evaluation process.

Title of the article: .....

Authors: .....

1. Have you received financial support for the research?

Yes ___

No ___

2. If the answer is affirmative, did you include the information about the financial support in the "Title Page" section under "Funding," specifying the full names of the granting institutions, the title and ID of the research project for which you received funds, and the year in which it was granted?

Yes ___

No ___

If the answer is negative, please specify the reasons: .....

3. Is there any commitment from the authors to the sources of funding or any other type of relationship that could be perceived as a conflict of interest?

Yes ___

No ___

If the answer is positive or negative, provide details: .....
.....
.....

Note: The mention of conflicts of interest does not imply the rejection of the article. Any actual or potential conflict of interest must be explicitly stated in the "Title Page" file, under the subheading "Conflict of Interests".

4. In the case of research involving human subjects (any research involving individuals), is the acquisition of informed consent from the participants and the approval of the research project by an Ethics and Research Committee clearly stated in the text?

Yes ___
No ___

If the answer is positive or negative, provide details: .....
.....
.....

5. Is this article part of a broader research study?

Yes ___
No ___

6. If the answer is affirmative, is the name of the overarching research mentioned in the article?

Yes ___
No ___

Note: If the article is derived from a broader research study, we kindly request that you include the name of the research that originated the article in the designated section of the "Title Page" file, under the subheading "Derivations".

7. Have other works derived from the same research been published?

Yes ___
No ___

8. If the answer is affirmative:

- a. How many works derived from the same research have been published or are about to be published?
- b. Have you cited the derived works in the manuscript?

a. (Specify the number of works): ___

b. Yes ___

No ___

Not applicable ___

Note: Unlike duplication, the practice of splitting results to publish multiple articles derived from the same research is known as "salami slicing" or "publication fragmentation." To prevent each part from being considered duplication, it is essential that the research question, objectives, hypothesis, and methodology differ between them. Since this fragmentation could be misinterpreted as if the data came from different subject samples, it is crucial to specify this condition. Omitting this information may lead to rejection during the review or even retraction after publication. For more details, refer here.

9. We would appreciate your attention to the following aspects:

- a. Articles must be unpublished, and in the case of "fragmentation", it should not only be explicitly stated in the text but also address aspects not covered in previous works. The name of the research that gave rise to the article and clarifications regarding other works derived from the same research on which this article is based must be specified in the "Title Page" file under the section "Derivations".
- b. The approval code of the research project by an Ethics Research Committee, mention of obtaining informed consent, data confidentiality preservation, etc., should be detailed in the "Manuscript" file in the section "Materials and Methods."
- c. Financial support details should be included in the "Title Page" file under the section "Funding", specifying the full names of the granting institutions, the title and code of the research project for which funds were received, and the year it was granted

Note: If you have omitted any of these aspects in the work, we would appreciate your incorporation before completing the submission through the platform.

STATEMENT OF ORIGINALITY AND PUBLICATION RIGHTS

STATEMENT OF ORIGINALITY

We declare, for the proper purposes, that the article titled: .....,
.....,
authored by the undersigned, is an original work that has not been fully or partially published in any print or electronic media, has not been simultaneously submitted to another journal, is not currently under evaluation elsewhere, and will not be submitted to another journal until the review process in this publication is completed. Furthermore, we state that the assertions made in the text submitted for review are the sole responsibility of the authors.

PUBLICATION RIGHTS IN ENGLISH AND SPANISH

In the case that this article is accepted for publication, we grant authorization to the Argentinian Journal of Respiratory and Physical Therapy (AJRPT) to correct, edit, publish, and distribute the Spanish version in various formats (PDF, HTML, among others), at no cost to the authors.

The Argentinian Journal of Respiratory and Physical Therapy (AJRPT) provides a translation service, the cost of which is the responsibility of the authors. If this service is accepted, AJRPT assumes the rights to edit, publish, and distribute the translated version in various formats (PDF, HTML, among others).

Likewise, we authorize the Argentinian Journal of Respiratory and Physical Therapy (AJRPT) to distribute electronic copies of both versions (Spanish and English) and include them in national and international indexing services, directories, or databases, under the Creative Commons 4.0 Attribution-ShareAlike (CC BY-SA) license. This license allows copying, distributing, displaying, and modifying the work, even for commercial purposes, as long as the original authors are expressly recognized. Furthermore, the share-alike condition requires that any derivative work be distributed under the same conditions as the license of the original work.

Therefore, the Argentinian Journal of Respiratory and Physical Therapy (AJRPT) does not retain reproduction or copying rights (copyright), allowing authors to use the final versions of the publication in Spanish and English to disseminate them in institutional repositories, personal blogs, or any other electronic or printed medium, with the sole condition of acknowledging the original source of publication, in this case, the Argentinian Journal of Respiratory and Physical Therapy (AJRPT).

[Location and date]

[Signature and clarification of each author]